About the Artists

Colyn Fischer, a brilliant exponent of the classic Scots fiddle style and charismatic interpreter of both fiddle and violin music, has twice won the U.S. Open Scottish Fiddling championship. He performs locally and nationally, teaches school orchestra in San Carlos and summer fiddle intensives on the East Coast, and composes music ranging from traditional through jazz and classical. He coaches the Bay area's Peninsula Scottish Fiddlers, and toured Scotland with them in October 2008.

Shauna Pickett-Gordon, founder of the Peninsula Scottish Fiddlers, has accompanied many of the great Scottish fiddlers in North America, including Alasdair Fraser, John Turner, Laura Risk, Calum MacKinnon, John Taylor, and Bonnie Rideout. She, too, composes music in many styles, and enjoys accompanying silent movies.

The duo co-direct the Peninsula Scottish Fiddlers, conduct workshops in Scottish traditional music for string players, and play for Scottish country dancing. Their CDs, The Light of Day and Nocturne--their own compositions--are available on CDBaby.com and at the house concerts.
